Description

Angus: My mixed-breed cat, half domestic tabby, half Scottish wildcat. The size of a small Labrador, only mad. Likes to stalk Mr. and Mrs. Next Door's poodle. I used to drag him around on a lead, but, as I explained to Mrs. Next Door, he ate it.

Thongs: Stupid underwear worn by old Swotty Knickers, Lindsay. What's the point of them, anyway? They just go up your bum, as far as I can tell.

Full-Frontal Snogging: Kissing with the trimmings, lip to lip, open mouth, tongues...everything (apart from dribble, which is never acceptable). As taught to me by a professional snogger.

In this wildly funny journal of a year in the life of Georgia Nicolson, British author Louise Rennison has perfectly captured the soaring joys and bottomless angst of being a teenager. In the spirit of "Bridget Jones' Diary," this fresh, irreverent, and simply hilarious book will leave you laughing out loud. As Georgia would say, it's "fabbity fab fab!"

Insightful reviews

Becky: Sigh I wanted fluff, not brain-damage. Based on the recommendation from several friends who loved this, I picked this up when I saw it at a library sale, and I figured that now was a good time to read it since I'd just read a duo of emotionally traumatizing books and needed something light and fun after that.

But this, aside from having a few funny moments, was mostly a 14 year old selfish angst-fest. If I was that annoying as a 14 year old, I think I may have to nominate my parents for sainthood for not murdering me. I got so bored with it by the middle that I ended up skimming most of the second half. Drama, boys, makeup, snotty fucking "sense of humor" and cattiness. Thank god I'm not a teenager anymore.

I wasn't a fan of the style of this book either. It was written in journal format, but as is often the case, it ends up being mostly 1st person. But being that Miss Georgia is a drama queen, I can forgive that. She'd want to pour her heart out. But damn it was choppy and random and the timestamps didn't make sense. I think a lot of them were supposed to be funny, like "Oh, I'm going to do this thing and it's going to make me look like a fashion model and then the Sex God will love me!" and then 2 minutes later, "My life is ruined!"

Ha ha ha. See how funny that was? Yeah. Me neither. 2 stars.

Grace Meredith: So unbelievably funny!

Bonnie: Never would I have thought I'd enjoy reading about the drama of a 14 year old girl. Georgia is hilarious and reminded me of a younger, British version of Daria. Between Georgia dressing up as an olive, shaving off her eyebrows, her Scottish wild-cat Angus and her crazy baby sister who calls everyone a tosser... well Georgia is a new favorite.

Michelle: this is not my traditional genre, yet i have learn mild aimed-at-teens novels ahead of and loved them. I definitely do not believe that novels that challenge themselves regularly with make-up and courting cannot be relaxing reads. That said, i could not recover from the vanity of the most personality during this novel. She and her buddies are likely to take a seat round judging humans for enjoyable (including every one other, which results in a few harm feelings), and the temper of the unconventional swings from side to side among overdramatically angsty and bitingly sarcastic, that may be attention-grabbing yet now not with none type of substance to the lady at the back of them. i did not care approximately Georgia, except the bits of her that popped up within the issues she appeared to really care for- her little sister, and her crazy, likeable cat. regrettably these issues do not occupy a great deal of the book. the remainder of it really is certainly humorous at times, yet confused, occasionally mean-spirited, and never fairly tied together, plot-wise. i do not doubt that my dislike was once subjective, and many humans have quite loved those novels, yet understand that you are in for extra of a personality learn than a story.

Kristina Horner: I constantly get pleasure from an outstanding reread of this hilarious, captivating book. Even the immature components of this ebook are forgivable since it so completely and completely captures the younger teenage psyche. Silly, yet so funny.

Ellis: 10:34 amI suppose like yelling at him. "I am fourteen years old, Uncle Eddie! i'm bursting with womanhood, I put on a bra! it's kind of at the free facet and does experience up around my neck if I run for the bus ... however the womanly capability is here, you bald coot."
