Insightful reviews

Brandi: And here we are again. Yet another dino romance read for the Vaginal Fantasy Book Club.

I think I got most of my eye-rolling out of my system when I read the first book in this series three years ago. (Here's my review for that previous book, Eternal Pleasure.) This time, while I was not enthusiastic (to say the least) about reading another book in this series, by this author, I went in knowing what I would find.

And find it I did: some cheesy writing with an overabundance of repeating phrases ("tears clogging my throat" "his male scent" "my inner cavewoman" to name just a few), steamy yet cornily described sex scenes, and a ridiculous plot of 10 nigh-immortal, uber-gorgeous shapeshifting men with the souls of dinosaurs led by a mysterious, dangerous god-like man (comprising the Eleven) trying to stop the now Eight, actual immortals led by a different mysterious and dangerous god-like man, bent on ending humanity on December 21, 2012--just like the Mayans predicted!

Like with the first book, I am still intrigued by the backstory of Eleven and Eight (formerly the Nine). I still want to know who/what Fin is, but let's add his shady brother Seir to that list now as well. I didn't resort to skimming this book like the last one--ok, so not as heavily skimming it. Since I knew basically where this story was going from the start, it was easier to stomach.

One thing that really pissed me off was the weird twist the author added to vampire mythology: having a vampire get pregnant by a living, mortal man and give birth to a human baby. Sure, I appreciated Nina Bangs reversing the horrible idea Stephenie Meyer put forth in the final installment of her Twilight series, Breaking Dawn: that male vampires--and only male vampires, not female vampires--can procreate with humans to create human-vampire hybrids. Fuck that sexism right there.

And sure, Bangs' variation is slightly different and also sexist, though this occurrence was so anomalous that maybe there had been a reverse (male vamp impregnating a female human) somewhere in her story world but just wasn't mentioned. Whatever, that's not what I am pissed about.

Call me crazy, but here's what I think: UNDEAD CREATURES--VAMPIRES, GHOULS, ZOMBIES, ETC.--CANNOT PROCREATE, CANNOT GESTATE CHILDREN, CANNOT GIVE BIRTH. Only life creates life. This is just a GIANT pet peeve of mine. It can be hard enough for regular old mundane mortal humans to create life, to have a children, that it really burns me when I read about undead things doing it, no matter how rare such an event may be. /rant

And the book title and the author name are still crap. But they do make me chuckle.

Donna: And now for something completely different... Ok, not completely different but certainly not your run of the mill paranormal romance novel. Nina Bangs writes fun paranormal romances with lots of sexy men & women and fun situations. The Gods of Night series is off her beaten path. Yes, there is romance and lots of creatures of the night but her sexy men are the original uber alphas and the situations they get into are a lot darker than her other series. That said I am really enjoying this series. The characters are engaging and the mystery draws you in. Eternal Craving is the second book in the series. In it Fin and the gang head to Philly to take on Eight and his group of maniacs. We get to meet Kelly's sister Jenna and she and we get to know a lot more about Al. We also learn a bit more about Fin, Utah, Rap, Tor, Jude, Zero and Seir. I can hardly wait to see where she will take us next.

Ariadne: This book is definitely not my thing. From the start I decided that it is a book in which a very high suspension of disbelief is necessary. Okay, no problem with that. But then the mixture of vampires, ghouls, dinosaurs (T-rex, Allosaurus, Giganotosaurus, Spinosaurus, Pterosaur), fae, immortals, prehistoric souls, cabalistic numbers, the end of the world, visions, jaguar, tigers... That was too much for me! I hoped something really epic would happen in this book (after all, the end of world was near!) but the plot was sadly disappointing for me. And the romance... well, I didn't buy any of it.

Jennifer Defoy: I only recently bought into paranormal romance, so i am nonetheless feeling my method round the genre. So this e-book used to be a bit out of my general reading, yet i feel it was once beautiful decent. I enjoyed Nina Bangs' writing style, and the belief of prehistoric beasts saving humanity was once lovely original. even though I simply did not love the tale all that much. Granted as soon as I received close to the top i could not position it down. Bangs' is a smart storyteller. Her descriptions are nice and her personality improvement is awesome. the tale follows Jenna as she travels to Philadelphia to determine what her sister has been up to. The surprise she unearths whilst she will get the entire tale is greater than most folk might take, yet her curiosity in Al retains her around. Jenna unearths out that she is the foremost to saving humanity, at the least during this battle, and in her hunt to determine what precisely she has to do she falls in love. Again I enjoyed the writing kind and the tale has merit. I simply did not solely just like the prehistoric souls. i'll certainly choose up whatever else of hers, yet this sequence does not appear to be up my alley. It was once an attractive speedy read, and that i relatively cherished the characters. total i might provide it a thumbs up!

Cindy: nice learn - moment booklet within the THE GODS OF THE evening series. The heroine of booklet 1 [Eternal Pleasure:] sister's has come to go to - truthfully she's there to try the hot husband and the fellows he works with. She reveals men who're as beautiful as they're dangerous... and discovers her reviews with tabloid journalism have not even skimmed the highlights of the genuine supernatural world. The hero is Al, a guy with the soul of an allosuarus and anger administration issues. He and the heroine are pitchforked jointly by way of the chief of the group, a guy whose visions say the heroine is the major to saving this piece of the world.

She reveals Al either terrifying and interesting [she'd better, he is the hero:] and her safeguard opposed to the suggest streets of supernatural Philadelphia. Nina Bangs does an outstanding task of combining dinosaurs [keep the net convenient - you'll want to glance all the men up!:], Mayan mythos, doomsday scenarios, in addition to the 'regular' supernaturals present in so much paranormal romances [demons and shifters and vamps, OH MY!:]Eternal Pleasure(Gods of the Night, e-book 1) everlasting yearning (Gods of the Night, publication 2)

Alp: i am nonetheless asking myself, is that this the main artistic or the most unearthly PNR publication i have ever read? i do not understand no matter if to snort or cry! The dinosaur shapeshifters!!!When I first picked up everlasting Craving, i did not comprehend it was once the second one e-book in Gods Of The evening series. After studying for a while, i used to be thinking about if I may still return to learn the 1st one yet then determined to attempt carrying on with it. i discovered out that there has been now not an issue to begin the sequence with this booklet as the writer supplied sufficient history to aid me recognize what had occurred within the first place. So i stopped up completing this in a single day.The tale used to be in regards to the eleven dinosaur souls in eleven human bodies, and one in every of them used to be an Allosaurus who grew to become the hero during this book. that they had to struggle opposed to The 9 and different supernatural beings so as to store the human race. Alright, i used to be pleased with this plot, yet I wasn't definite the way to consider whilst it got here to romantic part. A dinosaur and a human woman... every time I imagined the Allosaurus... Umm...However, motion scenes have been more than enough for me to loved the tale and simply in just one book, i may locate each supernatural beings; Shapeshifters, Vampires, Warewolves, Demons, and likewise Fae. Wow!
