Description

Raised from an egg by Mother Duck, Guji Guji is quite content with his life as a duckling, despite the fact that he doesn't look anything like his brothers. Then one fateful day he meets up with three nasty, grinning creatures who not only convince him that he is, like them, a crocodile, but also try to persuade him to deliver his fat, delicious duck relatives for their dinner!

Insightful reviews

This book is a version of The Ugly Duckling. It is a very cute story about a crocodile egg that rolls into a busy and unaware mother ducks nest. She hatches it along with her other eggs. One duck comes out striped, one yellow, one with blue spots, and one looking like a crocodile. Mother duck loves all of them equally and teaches them everything duck-like. One day some big crocodiles come along and make fun of "crocoduck" and try to make him betray his family because they want to eat the ducks. They say crocodiles are supposed to be bad. But "crocoduck" loves his family.

This is a great book to read to children about accepting each other's differences and our families. The illustrations are adorable and funny. The blue and earthy colors are gorgeous and the characters expressions are hilarious. This is a classic that readers will fall in love with and hand down generation to generation.

Lori: I might not have liked this so well if it hadn't been read aloud to me by Robert Guillaume at Storyline Online. Proves that we are never too old to be read to.

Marta: Listened to this as an audio book from the screen actor's guild and it was a fantastic experience, if not a little creepy. As a child, I'd definitely be a little alarmed at the animations of the crocodiles and the color scheme was a little bleak. But all that aside, it was an interesting story and would be great for read alouds with children 0-6 years of age.

Vicki: this can be a enjoyable publication to learn aloud to young children older than preschool age. i'll pay attention a pin drop as I learn aloud to kindergarteners approximately mid aspect of the publication as issues acquired a piece suspenseful. The illustrations are unique, have a lifeless kind of experience approximately them and are revealed on solid dry paper. I paired this ebook with "The Crocodile Who did not Like Water" by way of Gemma Merino for a kindergarten visit. The books are similar, but different. This e-book isn't really new, yet discovered I by no means extra to Goodreads even if I used it numerous instances before.

Paul: well illustrated book, yet a wierd attempt to stress the underlying values of variety that play into an adoptive situation. a toddler croc who feels extra at domestic between ducks? which can approximate the feelings felt by means of a few followed children, however the crocodile-duck pairing (prey and preyed upon) turns out much less potent than than the setup within the grotesque Duckling.

Ms Threlkeld: I enjoyed the representation style! This ebook might spark an exceptional dialogue concerning the offerings we make and the belief of nature vs. nurture.
